Statistics Of Countries With New Objective Facts

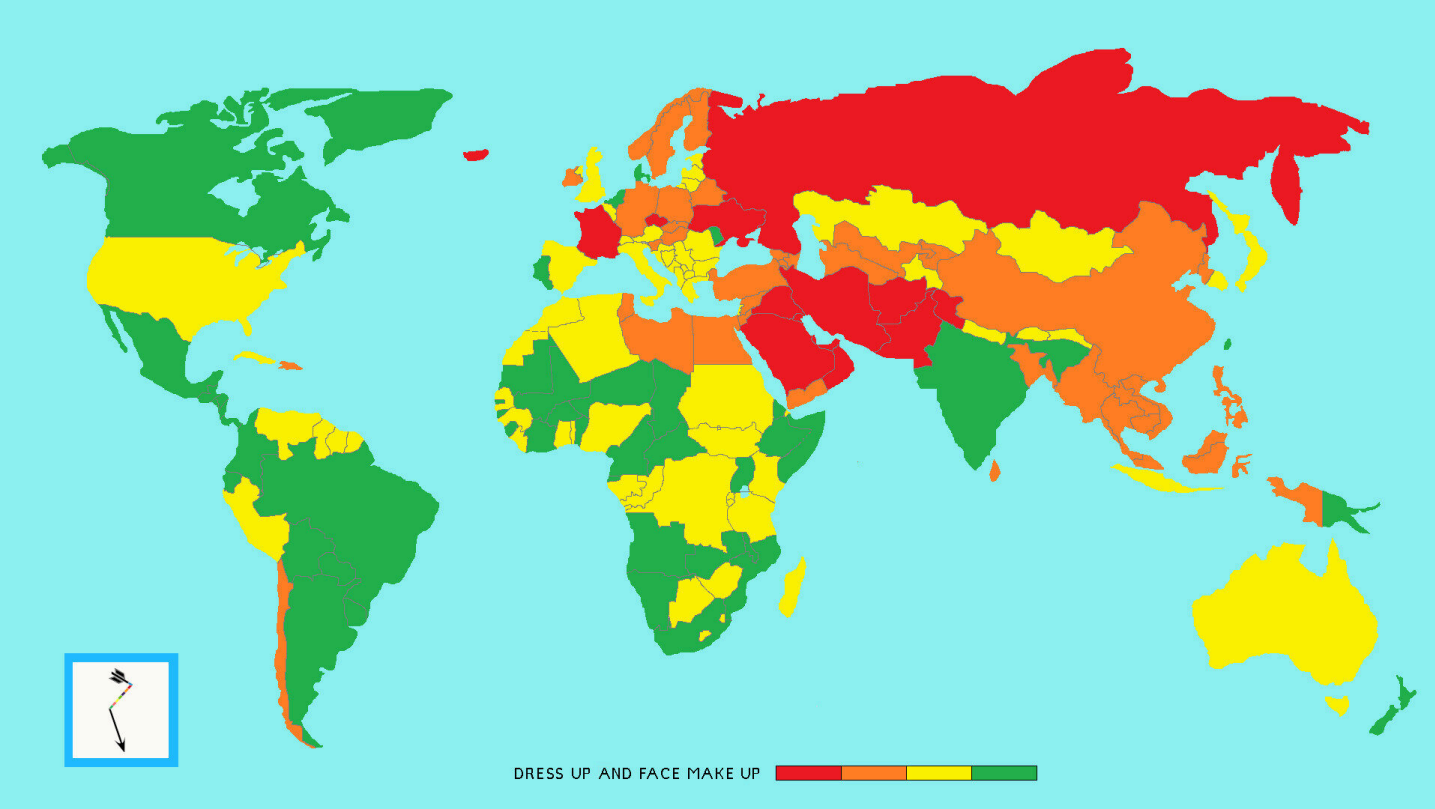
July 6, 2020

Statistics of countries for you. We spend some time and created new typological maps. Therefore all the statistics are based on analysis and objective facts we studied. Especially for your convenience, all the materials are presented in a form of maps.

Statistics Of Countries With Maps

World map of human dress up and face make up:

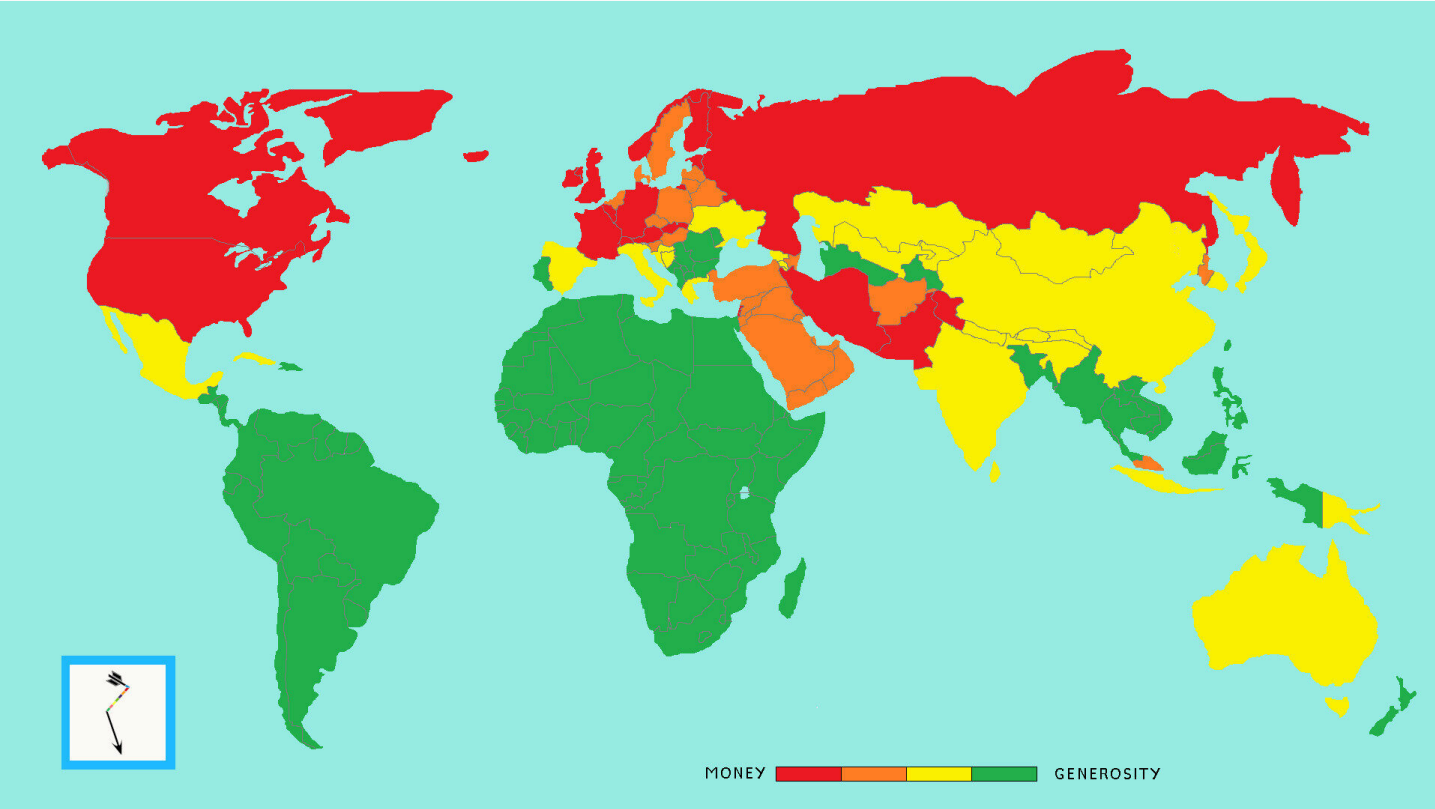
This map below shows statistics of countries in which people like to dress up and do face make up the most. To illustrate, red colour shows in what countries people like to do such things most. But green colour shows in which countries people don’t care much about their appearance.



(The map is first published in October 28, 2020)

Money and generosity map:

This map shows in which countries people value these two opposite things most. Of course, red colour shows the dominance of money and green is generosity among people.

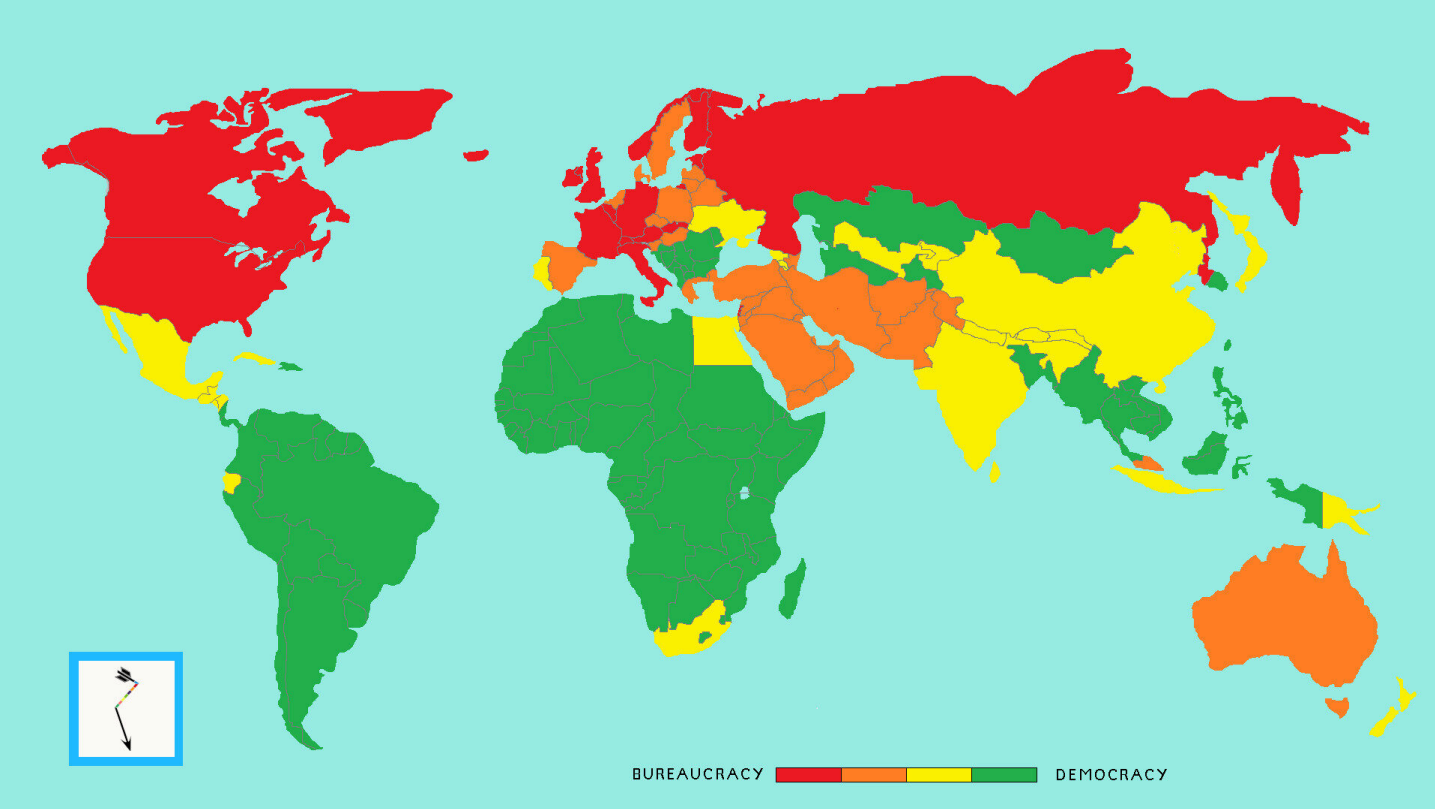


(The map is first published in October 28, 2020)

Bureaucracy and democracy map:

This map shows in which countries people value these two opposite things most. Therefore red colour shows the dominance of bureaucracy and green shows the dominance of democracy.

(by bureaucracy we mean only that such people love documents and paperwork more then they trust other people and their words. There is no connection between bureaucracy and bribery or any other bad habits in our case)



(The map published in October 28, 2020)

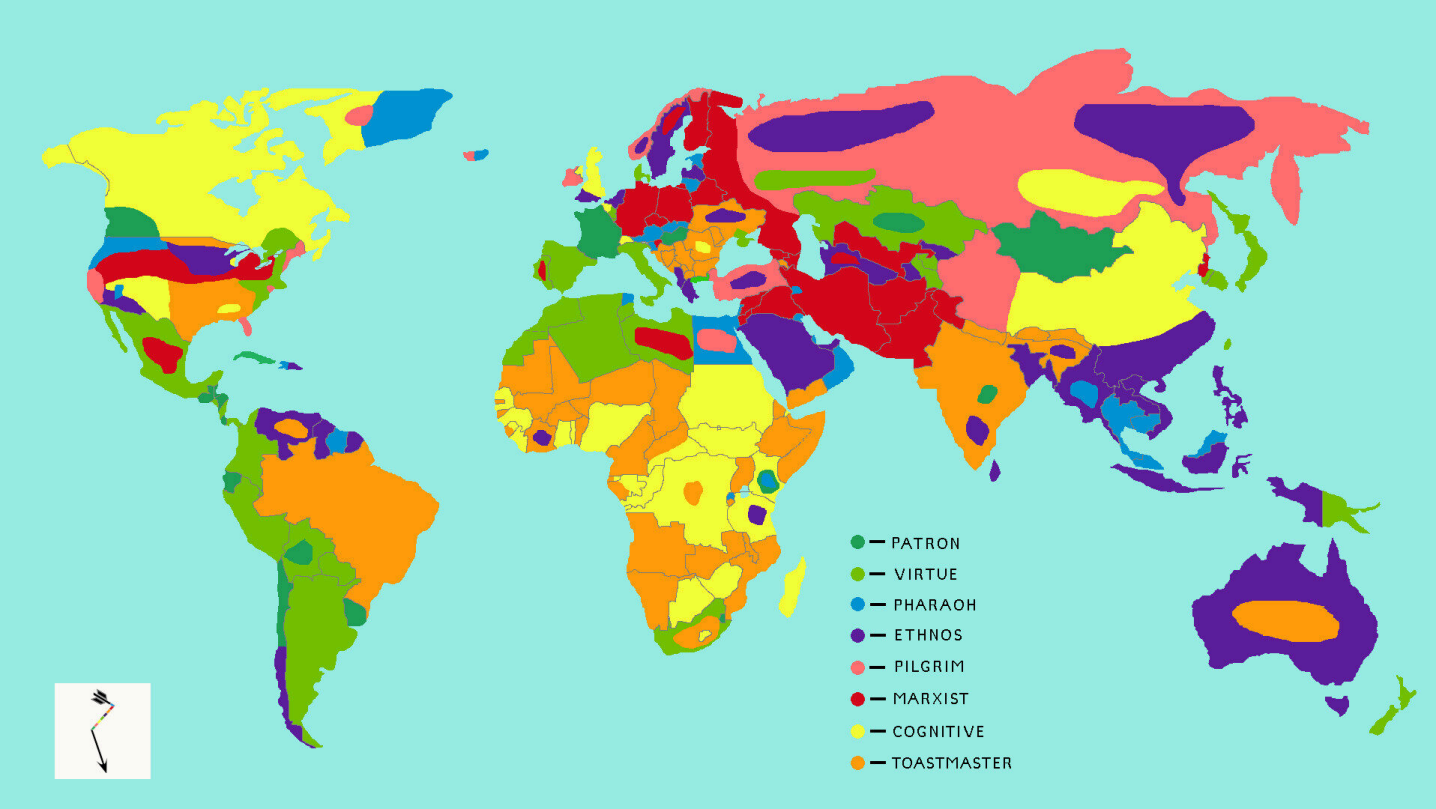
World map of ITT in each country:

It shows which innate (inherited) thinking type (ITT) is leading in every country by population. But it means that such ITT types is a distinctive majority among other ITT types that also live in that country (more about it here).

(The map is first published in July 29, 2020)

World map of eight innate groups of people:

We found eight innate groups of people with different life values. To demonstrate, the map shows what kind of innate groups of people live in certain countries at this moment. Of course, here we mean, that such groups are distinctive majority of population among other groups of people that live there too. So there are eight innate groups in total: Patron, Virtue, Pharaoh, Ethnos, Pilgrim, Marxist, Cognitive, Toastmaster (more about it here)



(Published in July 29, 2020 and updated in September 19, 2021)

World map of categories of people:

We found four categories of people and this map shows what kind of category is dominating in each country at the moment. Therefore, such people are the majority of population in each country among the other categories who live there too. In fact, there are four categories of people: 1 – Peaceful, 3 – Recluse, 2A – Active Patriot, 2P – Passive Patriot (more about it here)
